

DAILY BULLETIN

RECORD SETTING EVENTS

Carrington College in Pomona goes for Guinness World Record

Carrington College medical assisting student Kadisia Clark, right, checks the blood pressure of Vet Tech student Nicole Grenier on Thursday, during an attempt to break the Guinness World Record for the most blood pressure checks within an eight-hour period. (Photo by Sarah Alvarado/ Inland Valley Daily Bulletin)

By Staff report

Carrington College students on Thursday attempted to break the record for blood pressure checks within an eight hour period. The goal was to provide 26,451 checks in eight hours. (Photo by Sarah Alvarado/ Inland Valley Daily Bulletin)
POMONA >> One for the record books?

That's what Carrington College was hoping for Thursday when they attempted to break the Guinness World Record for the most blood pressure checks in an eight-hour period.

The goal: 26,451.

Carrington College has campuses throughout the country, though the only Southern California campus is in Pomona.

Medical assisting students provided the checks and college staff members were available to provide information about risks associated with high blood pressure.

The college was aiming to bring attention to National High Blood Pressure Education Month which is May.

<http://www.dailybulletin.com/general-news/20150521/carrington-college-in-pomona-goes-for-guinness-world-record>